CHARGING STATION NOW AVAILABLE IN SNOWMASS

Snowmass is offering its first public electric vehicle charging station, thanks to a generous grant from the Colorado Energy Office. The dual AC level two Eaton charging station is conveniently located next to the Transportation Depot on Brush Creek Road, providing easy access to the free Snowmass Village Shuttle system. The station supports two simultaneous, independent charge sessions and can fully charge a vehicle's batteries in as little as four hours. The charging station supports the town's commitment to reduce carbon emissions 20 percent by 2020 and is a great free public amenity as electric vehicles and hybrid electric vehicles become increasingly popular for our residents and visitors alike. ICE AGE DISCOVERY

In October 2010, a bulldozer operator working near Snowmass uncovered the tusk of a young female mammoth. Over the next 10 months, the Denver Museum of Nature & Science conducted a fossil excavation, yielding a treasure trove of well-preserved Ice Age fossils. Museum crews uncovered 5,400 bones of Ice Age animals, including mammoth, mastodon, giant ground sloth, camel, deer, horse, giant bison, as well as plant life, insects, and fossils of smaller animals including otters, beavers, salamanders, snakes and more.

This discovery is both the best high elevation site in the world, and the best ice age site of any kind in North America for diversity.
